1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

2. Claims 1-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nataraj et al (6,154,384) in view of Rusu et al (6,067,656).

As per claims 1, Nataraj et al disclose the invention substantially as claimed, comprising: a CAM array including a plurality of CAM cells, a plurality of bit lines and a plurality of comparand lines being adapted to provide as part of a compare operation, a comparand value for comparison with data words stored in the CAM cells. (See col. 2, lines 30-44). Nataraj et al do not specifically disclose an error detection circuit to determine whether the selected data word includes an error. However, Rusu et al disclose an error detection circuit to determine whether the selected data word includes an error and correct errors. (See Fig. 4A, col. 4, line 47 to col. 5, line 28). Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to incorporate the error detection circuit of Rusu et al into the CAM array of Nataraj et al so soft error can be detected in CAM array.

As per claim 2, the teaching of Nataraj et al and Rusu et al have been discussed above. Rusu et al further disclose asserting an error signal if the selected data word includes an error. (See col. 5, lines 5-8).

As per claims 3-10, 14-15, the teaching of Nataraj et al and Rusu et al have been discussed above. Rusu et al further discloses: wherein the CAM array further includes storage cells to store a plurality of validity values, each validity value indicating whether a respective row of CAM cooes contains a valid data word, the circuitry to assert the error signal being coupled to receive one of the validity values that corresponds to the selected data word and including circuitry to prevent assertion of the error signal if the one of the validity values indicates that the selected data word is not a valid data word. (Col. 5, lines 1 to col. 6, line 3).

As per claim 11, Nataraj et al further disclose: wherein each of the plurality of CAM cells is a ternary CAM cell. (Col. 1, lines 5-6 and col. 2, lines 30-31).

As per claims 12 and 13, Nataraj et al further disclose wherein the selected data word is a local mask value and is a CAM word. (Col. 1, lines 39-41).

As per claims 16-17 and 21-67, these claims are also rejected under the same rationale as set forth in claims 1-10 and 14-15.

As per claim 18-20, these claims are also rejected under the same rationale as set forth in claims 11-13.

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-67 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
